LIVE UNITED™

ONE PHONE CALL. DOZENS OF WAYS TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

Now, finding the volunteer opportunity that's best for you won't take a lot of time or research. Because your employer participates in Business Meets Community, you're already connected to a whole range of volunteer opportunities that serve youth in your community. Join the movement. United Way is here to make it easy.

Choose how you want to get involved:

Career Development

Mentor, teach computer skills, organize a panel to speak to youth about careers, or hire a young person for the summer.

Sports and Hobbies

Coach any sport, teach a clinic, or lead a cooking club or writing group.

Leadership and Life Skills

Share what you know, whether it be public speaking, business writing, basic life skills like personal finance or teaching the importance of volunteering and public service.

Academic Assistance

Help with homework, test preparation (SAT, MCAS or GED), or college applications.

With United Way, your time will always make the most impact.

Today in Massachusetts, more than 5,000 young people are waiting to be paired with a mentor. Every year, 11,000 drop out of high school. There's a way you can help right now, in your own community.

When you volunteer through United Way, your skills, talents and commitment will be matched with a vision for long-term success and the expertise of more than 100 youth service agencies.

Join the movement. Together, we can create a brighter future for young people and a better life for all.

Learn more about the many ways that you can connect with youth through United Way's Business Meets Community Program. Immediate opportunities are available.

Please contact Karley Ausiello at BMC@supportunitedway.org or 617.624.8146 to get involved now.
